Theology of Stewardship

Congregations often get caught up in financial needs and numbers when thinking about stewardship. It is easy to forget the theological and biblical foundation of managing all of life and life's resources for God's purposes. This discussion will help the participants reflect on stewardship by going back to its theological roots in scripture and baptism.

Asset Mapping: Hands on Experience

God provides congregations with all the assets needed to engage in the mission and ministries to which we have been called. Yet far too often we lack people to fill our needs. Learn to lead your congregation in identifying gifts, integrating them with existing ministries, and creating new ministries that match your gifts.
