

Synod Assembly site changed for June 19-21, 2008

We ran into a detour on the way to Delaware! Attendance at the Delaware-Maryland Synod Assembly in "regular" years (that is, years when we do not elect a bishop) has increased considerably. In fact, as of this year, the number of participants has increased steadily beyond the point where the University of Delaware is able to accommodate us. So, despite the announcement at the 2007 assembly that we'd be going to the University of Delaware for the 2008 assembly, we are returning, instead, to the Eisenhower Center, Gettysburg, Pa., for one more year.

When it became clear after this year's assembly that the number of participants for which we must allow meant we could not return to the university, the Assembly Site Committee searched diligently for another Delaware site. Because of the limited time available, however, the committee could not find another suitable site in Delaware. The committee appreciates your patience and understanding.